APRIL 7, 2013, DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Each year the Home Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan gives awards for the best architectural designs in various price ranges. It's good for checking out the latest thinking on home design, and also perhaps for a bit of dreaming about that next house in one of the upper price ranges.

The HMA announced the winners of its 24th annual Parade of Homes architectural judging. In this year's competition, top prizes were awarded to the model homes in six categories. The winners were selected based on best value, best use of space, most innovative design and aesthetic appeal.

Parade of Homes is an exhibition of 43 new model, under construction and pre-construction homes and condominiums located throughout southeastern Michigan. The showcase takes place June 1-30. All 43 homes are featured at www.ParadeHBA.com. HBA and Bank of America Home Loans sponsor the event.

Arteva Homes is the 2013 Parade of Homes winner in the category Homes More Than $650,000 for the Callaway idea ShowHouse.

The Blue Ribbon Homes Are For:

- Attached Condominiums — Mocerri Companies for Claremont
 - Homes Under $200,000 — Infinity Homes & Soave Homes for Columbia
 - Homes $250,000 to $325,000 — Mark Adler Homes for Packard
 - Homes $325,000 to $400,000 — Tall Oaks Ventures for St. Andrew IV
 - Homes $400,000 to $500,000 — MJC Oakland Hunt for The Logan
 - Homes More Than $650,000 — Arteva Homes for Callaway idea ShowHouse
